INTRODUCTION

Visitors to the Galleries, appreciative of the highest art, will find the best products of the artists represented.

Galleries A and B contain the most notable collection of Old Masters, early English and Barbizon men shown in any public exhibition.

The remaining Galleries, containing the works of early Americans and the foremost contemporary painters, are hung as a comparative exhibition, showing sharp contrasts, rather than any attempt at grouping.

The high quality of the exhibit was made possible by the interest and generosity of the Artists, Galleries, Art Museums and owners of private collections.
